'GRAND-STAND" PLAY

CHARGED AGAINST S. S. HEINEY BY U. S. MARSHAL DEPUTIES.

Rearrested Yesterday on New Indictment-Sensational Evidence in Goodin Case-Court News.

The cynical attaches of the United States marshal's office say that when Samuel S. Heiney, of New Castle, surrendered himself he knew that the indictment against him had been nollied. They do not credit him in order to get the fee specified in the note with sacrificing his personal liberty for the benefit of his nobler sentiment. Deputy Marshal Branham arrested him yesterday | services" necessary to collect the note by morning on a new indictment and put him behind the bars of the Marion county jail. Heiney was postmaster at Moreland. An the laughter following the return of the investigation of his accounts was made, and witness, and the remark by him of, "Well, it was alleged that he had embezzled about $200. Heiney disappeared. The federal grand H. C. STEVENS, New Styles Wall Paper. Low | jury indicted him. The warrant for his arrest lay in the marshal's office for two years, and it was finally nollied because it was supposed that Heiney would never be heard of again. The very next day after the indictment was nollied Heiney entered the marshal's office and gave himself up. This was last November.

It was suspected that some friend of Heiney's had informed him that here was a chance for a "grand stand play." The authorities presented his case to the last grand jury and he was reindicted. When Deputy Marshal Branham called on Heiney yesterday morning and told him he was due at the jail Heiney was exceedingly surprised. He did not understand how he could be arrested after one indictment against him had been declared void. The deputy marshal explained to him that the Federal Court some day, and Heiney left home and friends to seek the truth, with the deputy marshal close at his side.

MRS. HAYDEN'S TESTIMONY.

The State Considers It Very Strong Against Maud Goodin. Mrs. Maud Goodin, charged with conspiacy in the vitriol-throwing case in which Dr. Aimee Haskinson was the victim, was able to be in court yesterday morning. She sat in a rocking-chair near her attorney, John S. Duncan, during the day. At the close of yesterday's proceedings the attorneys for the State expressed themselves as well pleased with the testimony that had been brought out. Two or three witnesses who did not testify in the former trial were on the stand yesterday. The most important of these was a Mrs. Hayden, an ordained minister of the Spiritualist Church. She formerly kept her office in the Empire block and testified that at that time she and Mrs. Goodin were on intimate terms. Mrs. Goodin being the custodian of the block, Mrs. Hayden saw her frequently. The witness testified that Mrs. Goodin sometimes spoke to her about James Van Natta and Miss Haskinson. Mrs. Goodin, the witness said, once said to her that "they took delight in driving up and down Massachusetts avenue just to worry her." The WANTED—Ten experienced clothing salesmen.

Apply at 7 p. m. 16 North Meridian street. H. from the Empire block, Mrs. Goodin came to her and asked her to her a to her and asked her to buy some vitroil for her. The witness said she asked her why she wanted the vitroil and Mrs. Goodin replied that she was going to spoil the faces of "those people," as she had had all the trouble she was going to over them. Mrs. Hayden, according to her testimony, ad-vised Mrs. Goodin to cease bothering herself about Van Natta and Dr. Haskinson. After Mrs. Goodin's arrest Mrs. Hayden went to the Empire block to see her. She testified that the defendant declared she had nothing to do with the assault on Miss Haskinson, declaring: "I am as clear of it as an angel in heaven." The witness said Mrs. Goodin begged her not to appear against her, "for Bessie's sake." "Is that the reason," asked Attorney Wiltsie, "why you were not here during the first trial?" "Yes," answered the witness;

"I was out of the city." Another new witness who testified yester-day was Albert Rube. He recalled a circumstance that happened on the night of May 17, 1898, a few days before Dr. Haskin-son was assaulted at her home on North Pennsylvania street. On the night of May 17, it is claimed by the State, Mrs. Goodin and Mrs. Kline went to Dr. Haskinson's nome and stood on the outside at the window. Mrs. Kline in her confession said that on that occasion they went there to shoot
Dr. Haskinson, but they failed to carry out the plot. Albert Rube, the young man who testified yesterday, said that on the night spoken of he had an engagement to meet a friend at New York and Pennsylvania streets, and while waiting there he saw two vomen approach Dr. Haskinson's house. He recognized one of the women as Mrs. Goodin, whom he had seen while he was employed at Van Natta's livery stable. He said he had waited on her when she came there for her phaeton. She kept the rig at Van Natta's stable.

Little Nora Wright, daughter of Mrs. Mary Wright who testified for the State several days ago, was a witness yesterday. She corroborated her mother's testimony. Mrs. Wright kept the New York street rooming house where it is alleged Mrs. Goodin and Mrs. Kline went once for the purpose of assassinating Miss Haskinson so well pleased were the members of the if they could induce her to come there. On church with his sermons that he has been was disguised as an aged woman and was answer has yet been received, but an acsupposed to be the mother of the you The State claims the scheme was to send for Dr. Haskinson to come and attend the "mother," who was supposed to be be very iil. It was arranged that the physician | which he held for four years, going from was to be shot while she was in the room. Mrs. Kline, it is claimed, refused to carry out her part of the plot and this is why the scheme failed. The witness, Nora Wright, years. corroborated the evidence of her mother as

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 22.-Indianapolis could not hit Reidy to-day and the Brewers won 5 to 1. For nine innings the visitors combated unsuccessfully against the puzzling assortment of slants served up John Thomas was dismissed for the reason | by Mack's wily pitcher, and in only one instance did they solve his delivery, a single by Hogriever, in the sixth inning, being the only safe hit secured off the Cleveland boy. On the other hand, Scott was hit hard and only the finest fielding on the part of the visitors saved him from a worse licking than he received. The brilliant work of both teams was remarkable, as the weather was Harry C. Nields has been appointed cold and a northeaster chilled the marrow in the bones of the nine hundred spectators present. After striking out two of the three men who faced him in the first inning, the Milwaukees rolled out one tally in their half. Weaver's two-bagger and Gray's single bringing in Buck over the rubber with the opening run.

Neither side scored again until the fifth inning, when Reidy passed Kahoe to his base, and two infield hits put him on third, from which he scored when Shoch fumbled the sizzling drive from Hickey's bat. The contest during the next two innings was exciting, as both teams were blanked in succession, but in the seventh, Flynn misjudged Hallman's liner to left field, where he had been stationed when Sharrott became ill, and Hallman secured credit for two bases as a result. Speer, Reidy and Waldron followed with singles and two Brewers raced across the platter. In the eighth inning the Brewers made two more runs, a three-bagger by Gray and singles by Hallman and Stafford helping the runners home. Some of the stops made by Scott cut off hits and a running catch by McFarland added interest to the game. Gray, Nicol, Shoch and Waldron did the finest work for Milwaukee. WABASH, Ind., May 22.-There is a great deal of dissatisfaction abong the baseball patrons over the long and unbroken record of defeats sustained by the Wabash team in the I.-I. League. The patronage of the club in this city has been excellent, the newspapers have loyally supported the nine in adversity and an extraordinary public interest was developing, which is rapidly being dissipated by the one-sided nature of the contest. The local association has a large sum of money invested in the park and buildings, which are superior to those in other cities in the league, and with a good team there would be no uncertainty concerning patronage. A change must, however, come immediately, if a crisis in the affairs of the locals is to be averted. It is stated here to-night that Manager Poor has signed a pitching phenomenon and a star player from another league and that from this time forward his club will win some games. It is also understood here that Rich-mond, Ind., and Mattoon, Ill., will join the I.-I. League next week, making eight clubs, instead of six.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GREENCASTLE, Ind., May 22.—De Pauw defeated Purdue to-day in twelve innings. The game was in doubt at all times. De Pauw gave a sorry exhibition of base running and infielding and had ten men left on the bags. They batted hard enough to win two games. Pulse gave the best exhibition of pitching ever seen here and had the visitors at his mercy, striking out twenty of Beckley, 1 the boiler makers. Price was injured by a foul tip and was succeeded by Longwell, which caused a general change in the home eam. The visitors put up a good game in the field, and the throwing of Smith to second was the best seen here for many seasons. De Pauw hit for a total of twentythree bases, but could get only six men over | Gleason, 2..... the plate. The game was the closest of the Indiana season so far, and the masterly pitching of Pulse was the redeeming feature. He also drove in the winning runs with a two-base hit in the twelfth. The interest in the college season now centers in the Decoration day game to be played here between De Pauw and Indiana University. The score:

De Pauw......000101020002-615 Purdue100200100000-4 3 Struck out-By Pulse, 20; by Bronson, 7 Left on bases—De Pauw, 10; Purdue, 4. Two-base hits—Haynes (2), Pulse, Longwell, Ellis. Three-base hit—Haynes, Batteries— De Pauw, Pulse, Price and Longwell; Purdue, Bronson and Smith. Umpire-Eiteljorg.

Baseball Notes.

Pat's Perfectos are no longer perfect. The Western League shows up a good collection of small scores this morning. Thirteen hits off Scott and one off Reidy. with no errors for the Hoosiers, explain: yesterday's game fully. St. Paul spheromaniacs are unable to account for Buffalo winning four straight from Indianapolis. Same here. Pulse, of the De Pauw, struck out twenty and Ryan's being hit by a pitched ball. Purdue batters yesterday. Managers should keep an eye on this college twirler. There is no change of place in the Western League this morning, though by reason of the leading two losing and the tail-end pair winning, the race is closer than before. Manager Stallings does not think much of the Kansas City team. He has played ball with a number of the men, and says they have not the heart to go through a bruising

It is moved that the other five clubs in the Indiana-Illinois League meet and vote the Wabash "kilts" a bunch of five games won every two weeks, to encourage an infant industry. Do we hear a second Tebeau says that Griffith and Callahan, of the Chicagos, have already beaten the new balk rule. "They make a motion with their knee," says the St. Louis captain, "which starts a base runner, and then they throw to first. The motion is a balk, but it has not been called."

Just now the rooters are busy speculating which of the pitchers will be sent to Indianapolis. The majority of the enthusiasts believe that Dwyer is the twirler that will go to the farm. The matter is up to Brush, Ewing & Co., and at last accounts they had not come to any conclusion about the matter.-Cincinnati Enquirer.
